

The recipe for modern mobile security

Overview

Modern attackers are targeting mobile because that is increasingly where the data resides. To this end, attackers are creating sophisticated malware delivered via mobile apps and are utilizing new methods to compromise a device to bypass existing security controls.

In response to this, organizations integrate Lookout with MobileIron to get advanced mobile threat detection while utilizing MobileIron's real-time quarantine of these risky devices.

Key Benefits of Lookout

Protection against advanced mobile threats

Detect and remediate mobile threats such as surveillanceware, trojans, or apps that exfiltrate data

Visibility into all sideloaded apps on your devices

View and approve iOS and Android apps that were installed outside of official app stores

Custom security policy

Create flexible security policies for user groups, such as executives or global workers

Lightweight iOS and Android app

Deploy a beautiful endpoint app that protects user privacy while securing corporate data

Lookout and MobileIron Together

Immediately respond to devices with policy violations

Using Lookout's threat detection, MobileIron can take action on devices based on Lookout's assigned risk level. For example, a "high risk" device may be immediately quarantined from the network

Easily deploy Lookout app to employees

Using MobileIron's Apps@Work feature, the Lookout app can easily be distributed to employees for seamless enrollment and activation

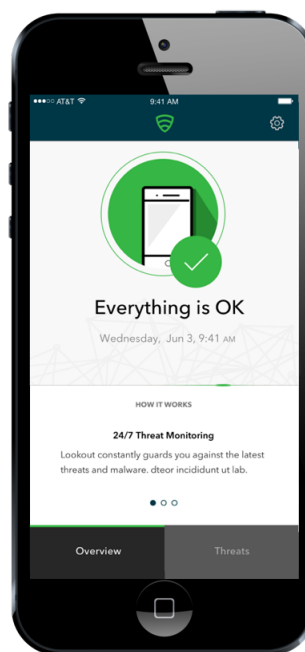

DATA SHEET

Use case: View sideloaded apps

On iOS and Android, it's increasingly easy for users to get apps outside of official app stores. Lookout provides visibility into those apps and their capabilities so you can respond.

Use case: Detect advanced malware

Identify the increasingly sophisticated malware that takes a targeted approach, such as trojans or spyware.

About Lookout

Lookout is a cybersecurity company that predicts and stops mobile attacks before harm is done to an individual or an enterprise.
